

ANIMAL COMMUNICATION WORKSHOP

with Jim Prudom, B.Math., M.Ed.

DATE: A two-day workshop
Sat. Nov. 3 & Sun. Nov. 4, 2007
9:30 a.m.– 4:30 p.m.

LOCATION: Barrie, Ont.,

This two-day course provides the basis of how to connect with animals telepathically. In this experiential workshop Jim will help you develop your own personal skills that will allow you: to become more deeply aware of who animals really are, to move into the presence of an animal and know what they have to share, to better understand animals from their viewpoint, and to share a deeper interaction with your animal companions. You will learn how to:

- communicate at a distance
- increase your confidence in accepting messages from the animals
- be aware of information from the animals through thoughts, images, feelings, impressions, and messages.
- increase your understanding and connection with your own animal companions
- quiet yourself and focus your intent

Jim is an Animal Communicator and Interspecies Counsellor. Working with animals and people from across North America he helps his clients with physical health concerns, emotional and behavioral issues, and spiritual awareness; including lost animals and animals who have passed on. As an Interspecies Counsellor he helps both animals and humans in their interactions with each other. Jim is also a Therapeutic Touch Teacher and Practitioner specializing in animals, and a Craniosacral Practitioner. As part of his work with people he volunteers his services at Hopespring Cancer Support Centre in Waterloo. His wholistic approach to healing also includes the use of Tellington Touch and flower essence therapy.
